

AMERICAN SOCIETY OF HIGHWAY ENGINEERS

International At-Large Membership Guidelines

The American Society of Highway Engineers has nine Regions which cover all 50 states. The International At-Large Membership gives someone living and working outside the United States the ability to join ASHE. The cost of an International At-Large Membership is $125.00 annually.

One of the domestic ASHE sections will be responsible for retaining the international at-large members on their email rosters to provide engagement with the organization.

All International At-Large Members of the American Society of Highway Engineers will initially receive a pdf of their Membership Certificate, followed by an electronic copy of the SCANNER magazine every quarter. They are also allowed to attend any Section's Lunch/Dinner Meetings, Regional Technical Seminars, and the National Conference at the member rate.

The mission of the American Society of Highway Engineers is to provide a forum for members and partners of the highway industry. The International At-Large Membership opens this forum to our foreign highway industry partners. This worldwide forum helps our membership approach a solution to common concerns that confront the highway industry.
